

for 12 percussionists
Erik Carlson
2018

The 12 players sit in a circle, within arms reach of each neighbor.
Each player brings 2 handheld objects to play.

Once the piece begins, each player taps their 2 objects together to make one short sound.
Not too loud. Each in their own time.

Shortly after each player has created a sound,
each player places one (either) object in their lap
and takes the other object in their right hand, passing it to the player on their right.
Each player should give and receive an object at the same time.

The process is repeated for as long as desired.