

for string player and electronics
Erik Carlson
2017

An offstage string player sustains a single pitch for one hour.

A microphone near the violinist turns on every 15 seconds for 1 second duration and transmits into the performance space. (without the player knowing when the microphone is on or off)